Our mission is to improve military recruiting and retention into education and business ventures to create win-wins for industry and for the men and women that have served our country valiantly. We believe that we can prove that military members, supported by effective transition programs, are the best employment product in the Nation.

We are a coalition of industry and educators, leaders, coaches, and business people that continue to build a team of proven businesses and educators to support our military members and veterans. We are supported by a core staff of diverse members that have served in fields such as the military, technology, software development, civil service, education, psychology, theology, and counseling. Today, our team is exceptionally focused in employment and transition planning, talent management, workforce development, and individual coaching.

IVET conducts seminars and execution planning assistance for our clients to improve their understanding of the leadership, execution skills, cost-benefits, and diversity that our military members bring to the workplace. We also enable our military clients and their partners to make fully informed and sound decisions regarding their futures. We help all of our clients identify their natural strengths and capabilities and match them to shortage career fields with exceptional growth potential. We then assist with education planning, academic admissions, follow-on personal job placement, and linkage to trained coaches that stick with them for as long as they are needed.

Additionally, we are growing into talent management and workforce development services to help companies retain and grow their internal employees. We offer mentor training and assist hiring managers in communicating their employee personal growth and education plans to meet future workforce recapitalization requirements. Specific services include cognitive capability assessments, education/higher education assistance, resiliency and family balance, career & job placement coordination, and talent management.

We focus on the Veterans, Military Members, and their partners and help them find their way in the often confusing transition back into the civilian workforce and then building a strong performance record in the workplace. We also assist companies in locating/recruiting military employees, retaining and optimizing their existing military workforce, educating hiring managers and senior leaders on veteran HR process and performance optimization.

Independent assessments indicate that we are one of a handful of organizations in the country that provides holistic end-to-end services to military members from the moment they decide to change directions in their lives & careers through post-employment transition stability.
